"Corporate portals must connect us not only with everything we need, but (also) with everyone we need, and provide all the tools we need to work together. This means that groupware, e-mail, workflow, and desktop applications - even critical business applications - must all be accessible through the portal. Thus, the portal is the desktop, and your commute (to work) is just a phone call away.

This is a radical new way of computing. It's much more effective for companies than traditional approaches, since they can outsource the entire infrastructure as a monthly service."

The Evolving Virtual Enterprise (EVE) iPortal is the first and only adaptive Internet Business Operating System which allows a business to manage its operations, customers, employees, suppliers, partners, resellers and more from the Web, all in real-time. Think about that for a minute! The office just became obsolete! With EVE and her growing modules (over 50), customer support can be streamlined, reducing support costs, and establishing a customer self-service and/or human support environment. With EVE's Productivity, Groupware, Utility, Financial, and eBusiness, sets of modules, a small business now has an equivalent type of powerful enterprise system found inside Fortune 500 companies.

Similar systems cost hundreds of thousands of dollars and no such system exists for the small business...that is until EVE! Skeptical? We'd be too! Read our article entitled "High-Tech Dilemma: Rethinking Technology and Your Small Business" published by The Latest Magazine (www.thelatestmagazine.com) or on our site (www.x-tier.com) to find out how we can offer EVE starting at $99.00 a month!
