"Corporate portals must connect us not only with everything we need, but (also) with everyone we need, and provide all the tools we need to work together. This means that groupware, e-mail, workflow, and desktop applications - even critical business applications - must all be accessible through the portal. Thus, the portal is the desktop, and your commute (to work) is just a phone call away.

This is a radical new way of computing. It's much more effective for companies than traditional approaches, since they can outsource the entire infrastructure as a monthly service."

The Evolving Virtual Enterprise (EVE) iPortal's Xminder Personal Event Alerting Service Module provides any EVE iPortal Subscriber with the means to schedule yearly event alerts in the form of email messaging to mobile devices and/or any email account. Because Xminder is an integrated EVE module scheduled event alerts are reported (if this option has been selected) upon login.

Xminder also allows event alert collaboration. Collaborate by scheduling event alerts for other EVE iPortal Subscribers to get everyone on the same page! With Xminder, automated event alert messaging has never been easier or more needed!

The Xminder Online Event Reporting & Messaging Module is a small but powerful real-time Web-based Groupware messaging application used to report and send event alerts to one or more people; thereby harnessing the power of the Internet to enhance and organize personal and/or professional alert messaging for business people on the go.
